Dear Portfolio Show Visitor,

My name is Brandon Marx, an upcoming graduate of Portland State University. As I enter the post-grad phase of my life, I am on the search for any opportunity to utilize the skills I've gathered throughout my time at college. I am excited to put these skills to use in Portland, Oregon's film scene.

Before coming to Portland State and pursuing my love for film, I was half way through a graphic design program at the University of Maine in Farmington. Before entering the film program, I took a variety of classes at PSU, including photography, general art, marketing, design, writing, geography, etc., before focusing my last two years on film. This interdisciplinary approach to my academics has strengthened my world view and allowed me the opportunity to secure a diverse belt of tools that aides me in all facets of life and will make me a valuable addition to your team or project.

I have recently put a focus on directing & producing films, where I have been able to implement and strengthen my skills in communication, scheduling, budgeting, leadership, and organization. My love for film is deeply rooted in a love for collaboration— any opportunity to work closely with a group of people towards a goal excites me.

I pride myself on being a self-starter who can work well independently or within a team. My leadership skills are complemented by an ability to follow direction and take lead comfortably with an adaptability toward evolving and changing circumstances. I pick up on things quickly and am well organized. Above all, I am a kind individual, easy-going, and at times can occasionally be funny.

I appreciate your time and look forward to the opportunity to work with you in the future.

Sincerely,

Brandon Tyler Marx
