Dear Portfolio Show Visitor

Firstly, thank you for attending this evening, it means a lot to me and all my classmates. After 4 years of working tirelessly to improve our skills its incredibly gratifying to be able to showcase our work to well-regarded industry professionals.

If you're reading this it means you're most likely within earshot of me, for that I apologize, ever since I was a kid the most common complaint from teachers was that I can't seem to shut up, and that still holds true. But if you haven't already gotten a good read on me yet, allow me to help. My name is Dylan Erlebach and I'm originally from Idaho and have been living in Portland for almost 6 years. I have had a lifelong passion for sports and animals and a slightly less than lifelong passion for film, photography, writing, reading, cooking, video games, coffee, and whatever else grips me in the moment. Despite my inability to stay quiet, I was somehow an anxious child with questionable social skills, but through a lot of hard work, perseverance, and a good sense of humor I have become an excellent communicator who excels at leading people by example and being the glue of a group. My professional skills range from videography, to writing, to marketing strategy, yet the core skill that I believe serves me the best is my adaptability. Because of this adaptability I truly believe that I can succeed at anything put in front of me, regardless of my current abilities or its perceived difficulty.

Again, I would like to thank you for taking the time out of your day to attend this event and read this letter. If you somehow haven't heard me yet, come find me and ask me some questions, if you're stumped for questions may I suggest.

- What is your favorite Strokes song?
- Why do you hate Meryl Streep?
- What's your go to Starbucks order?

Best Regards,
Dylan Erlebach
