Dear Portfolio Show Visitor,

I am a creative who is deeply invested in storytelling and its mediums. Studying film at Portland State has provided me a wonderful opportunity to learn more about my craft and gain important experience.

As the writer and director of five short films, I have experience in realizing stories, in managing crew, and in self-management. I have written scripts, prepared shot lists and breakdowns, and storyboards. These invaluable skills are certainly transferable to this opportunity. I have ample experience in handling professional filmmaking equipment and software.

Through my first career as an end-of-life caregiver, I have experience working in intergenerational environments. I am able to care for, empathize with and have compassion for people who hold a variety of beliefs and values. I am able to make high stakes decisions and function in crisis.

My strong written and verbal communication skills and respect for my own humanness and the humanness of others recommends me for collaborative and independent work. I welcome the chance to discuss any opportunities where I might contribute to and learn from meaningful work.

Best regards,

Michael Gearheart
