

HALO HOFFMANN

VIDEOGRAPHER

Born and raised in Kansas, I often spent my days day-dreaming. I always was immersing myself in separate realities... From bingeing films every dinner time., to creating tapes on my parents Sony digital 8, to joining video production in high school and earning awards in state-wide film festivals. All things led me to a dream of visual storytelling. In search of the best opportunities possible, I moved myself halfway across the U.S. away from my family, friends, and everything I knew. I had a dream with specific goals, and I am happy to say that thanks to my inner drive and obsession with inner growth, I achieved them.

I studied and obtained a Bachelor of the Arts in Film at Portland State University in Oregon, where I honed my skills in cameras such as Canon products, Sony, BlackMagic, and Panasonic. I have used audio devices such as MixPre, done gaffing, livestream set-up and operation, and more. Alongside studying full-time, I have worked in food service for 5 years providing for myself and improving my general skills. I hunger to enter the field I have such passion for, and am ready to move my life toward whatever that next step may be.

If I were to receive an opportunity within your company and team,

I can guarantee that I'll be ready to show up everyday with enthusiasm, effort, and a love for learning how to strengthen what I do.
